The Right Way

Since 1939, Dietz & Watson has been doing things The Right Way.

The Right Way means being transparent about what goes into our food. And what doesn't. It's cooking our meats down to their natural weight, so you pay for meat, not water. It means never cutting corners. Ever. It means all of our spices are blended by hand, not premixed like the other guys. It means cooking, not processing.

It's a commitment to quality that every single employee at Dietz & Watson upholds. Because if it's not right for us, it's not right for you. We've stuck by this tried-and-true philosophy since day one: doing it The Right Way, even if it's the hard way.
